

Counts are deterministic repository measurements rather than sampled estimates. Confidence intervals are therefore not applicable: the key result is a lopsided packet with planning and verification artifacts present, but zero executed H1 evidence files and zero bound-moving certificates.